Point-set registration For 2D point set registration used in image processing. , scaling, rotation and translation) that aligns two point clouds. The International Journal In computer vision, pattern recognition, and robotics, point-set registration, also known as point-cloud registration or scan matching, is the process of finding a spatial transformation (e. "Yale-CMU-Berkeley dataset for robotic manipulation research". The purpose of finding such a transformation includes merging multiple data sets into a globally consistent model (or coordinate frame), and mapping a new measurement to a known data set to identify features or to estimate its pose. g. 3D point clouds can also be generated from computer vision algorithms such as triangulation, bundle adjustment, and more recently, monocular image depth estimation using deep learning. Raw 3D point cloud data are typically obtained from Lidars and RGB-D cameras. Srinivasa, Siddhartha; Abbeel, Pieter; Dollar, Aaron M (2017-03-01) 83d7d6048c

Graphical model lecture slides on probabilistic graphical models Graphical models and Conditional Random Fields Probabilistic Graphical Models taught by Eric Xing at CMU A graphical model or probabilistic graphical model (PGM) or structured probabilistic model is a probabilistic model for which a graph expresses the conditional dependence structure between random variables. Graphical models are commonly used in probability theory, statistics—particularly Bayesian statistics—and machine learning 83d7d6048c
