During the second week of March 2020, in the beginning of the pandemic lockdown in Italy, Cavanna realized that too many critically-ill COVID-19 patients were arriving at his hospital and that they could have been treated earlier before the escalation of the symptoms. He therefore became one of the first doctors in Italy to focus on house calls for COVID-19 patients.

Emergency medical services are under Public Health Authorities control in each Italian Region; the ambulance subsystem is provided by a variety of different sources.

The polyclinic was founded as a nursing home called Villa Irma around 1967 by the Pio Istituto di Santo Spirito e Ospedali Riuniti through the establishment of several branches of the San Giovanni hospital. The name was chosen by Dr. Trombetta, who dedicated it to his mother, who died during childbirth. Subsequently, in 1971, it was transferred to the Via Casilina site, in the Torre Spaccata area, with a capacity of 250 beds for medicine, surgery, and obstetrics. Between the 1970s and 1980s, the clinic was expanded and transformed into a hospital.

The channel launched on 1 October 2005, becoming the sixth Discovery network to launch in Italy. It showed lifestyle programmes targeting a female upper-class audience of 25- to 44-year-olds. It features both foreign programmes and Italian programmes produced for the channel.

The Polyclinic has approximately 1,535 beds and 5,153 employees (857 doctors). Every year, it has 69,000 ordinary admissions, 139,000 emergency admissions, 33,000 surgeries and 3 million specialistic examinations. It has international excellence in some fields (oncologic hematology, hepatology, pediatric surgery).

The origins of Sant'Antonio Abate Hospital trace back to the late Middle Ages, when pilgrims and seafarers who became ill after arriving at the port of Trapani were assisted by volunteers near the church of San Pietro. Charitable donations enabled the construction of additional facilities over time, including a small chapel dedicated to Saint Anthony, the patron of sailors.

The hospital is affiliated with the School of Medicine and Surgery of the Alma Mater Studiorum – University of Bologna 1088.
