For his 2008 book One-Hit Wonders, music journalist Wayne Jancik defines a one-hit wonder as "an act that has won a position on Billboard's national, pop, Top 40 just once." In his definition of an "act", Jancik distinguishes between a solo performer and a group performance (thus, for example, Roger Daltrey's "Without Your Love" is counted despite Daltrey's numerous hits as frontman for the Who). Some musicians appear multiple times, either with multiple bands or as a member of a band and as a solo artist. The Veiled Prophet Parade and Ball was a St. Louis, Missouri parade and debutante ball presided over by a mythical figure called the Grand Oracle or Veiled Prophet. The first parade and ball were held in 1878, organized and funded by the Veiled Prophet Organization (VPO), an anonymous society founded in 1878 by all-white and male only civic leaders. The organization had its roots in the St. Louis Agricultural and Mechanical Fair, which grew to be a nation-wide popular event. Following controversy over its racist origins and continued racist inclinations, VP St. Louis removed any mention of the Veiled Prophet in relation to itself or the ball.

2026 Gujarat Titans season —

Described as "the first-ever pop electro opera" by Gaga, the tour was announced in October 2009, after an originally planned joint concert tour with rapper Kanye West was abruptly cancelled; instead, the Monster Ball officially began just four days after the release of The Fame Monster, in November 2009. An updated version of the show was created after only a few months of touring due to the singer's concerns that the original had been rushed-through during its initial stages. The stage for the original show looked like a "frame", similar to a hollowed-out television set.
